

St. Alban's Parishioners Annual Meeting

Committee Will be Appointed to Increase Revenue During 1935 to Make Good 1934 Deficit

St. Alban's parishioners held their annual meeting on Jan. 30, the rector presiding, and Mr. Llewellyn acting as secretary. The rector's report covered the church activities during the year, and the minutes were read and adopted, with a vote of thanks. The financial report of the vestry showed a falling off in offertories and subscriptions, but it is hoped to make good the loss during 1935. About $200 deficit was revealed in the statement, mainly due to lack of giving through the envelope system.

The Ladies Guild showed a much brighter record, with total receipts of $542.36, all accounts paid and a credit balance of $52.04. During the year they paid for the kitchen added to the parish hall, and had given the vestry $25 towards church expenses. The vestry's total receipts were $624.48.

It was decided to appoint a committee from the vestry to co-operate with the ladies to bring in a report on how to increase support, whereby it is hoped to make a better showing for 1935.

The rector stated that Bishop Sherman will spend a week here in May to conduct a mission, which will probably include two mass meetings open to the public in the Community hall or the skating rink. The bishop will also visit Coleman in March for Confirmation.

The rector suggested that on the 28th anniversary of the founding of the parish, that it be commemorated by a harvest supper in September. The suggestion was favored by the meeting.

The vestry for 1935 will be: Mr. Llewellyn, rector's warden; people's warden, Walter Williams; R. Lloyd, W. McMullen, H. T. Halliwell, Frank H. Graham and Wm. Martland, vestrymen; the wardens were also appointed as delegates to Synod, with F. G. Creegan and H. T. Halliwell as alternates.

MERCHANTS whose advertisements appear regularly in The Journal are the progressive-enterprising men who lead in business.

Many local business houses need more pep and enterprise, in order to attract business. Some give one a dead impression on entering, and wonder why they do not obtain more local business. The fault is theirs. Business goes where it is invited and where the surroundings and atmosphere are attractive. To see yourself as others see you is good medicine.

Useful Instruction Given Boy Scouts in Wood-working Shop

George Derbyshire Erects and Equips Shop Where Lads Usefully Employ Time After School

George Derbyshire is engaged in useful work for young boys. He has erected a workshop and equipped it with small motors and tools for woodworking in which a number of Boy Scouts are learning to use the lathe and other tools to a surprising degree of efficiency.

Assisting in instructing the boys are Mr. C. Devine, master mechanic of International Co., and Mr. Walter Dibble. Mr. T. Clarke also gives the boys instruction in some branches of woodworking. Already they show striking evidence of being apt pupils, for Mr. Derbyshire showed The Journal reporter some quite intricate pieces of work completed by the boys.

Later in the year it is expected an exhibition will be held and there is keen rivalry among the boys of the local Scout troops to take part in the work.

Mr. Derbyshire and the gentlemen who assist in instructing the boys are to be commended for their useful work and the boys certainly appreciate it, judging by the earnest way in which they were working when the reporter called.

A new regulation of the school trustees requires teachers to be in their class rooms 15 minutes before classes are scheduled to open. It is reported that a review of amounts paid to substitutes and time lost was under close review at a recent meeting. The total hours each week for classes is 26 1/2.

Be Self-Reliant

One of the most deplorable results of the world depression of the past five years, and especially unfortunate because the effects will be carried forward into the years to come after the depression has become a memory, is the breaking down of the morale of many people who for years have been unemployed. Unable to obtain employment anywhere, forced to accept government and municipal assistance, and with no immediate prospect of any change in the situation, the temptation to throw up their hands, abandon all self-effort to help themselves, and to sit down in despair or idly accept the situation, has proven too strong for many people.

Enforced idleness, living without working and doing so at the expense of the State, has apparently convinced some people that it is no longer necessary that they should work even when work can be obtained. Such people now take the attitude that they do not owe anything to their country, but that their country does owe them a living whether they work for it or not; that the State having provided for them when work could not be obtained, the State can just continue going on providing for their actual necessities of life. When employment is offered to this type of individual, he proceeds to complain because he will receive in exchange for his labor the increase in the amount he will receive does not compensate him for the fact that he will be required to work for it. He prefers idleness and relief.

At all times there has been a certain type of man, but his number has been greatly increased during the past five years. Such people now look upon government relief as a right, and they exercise their ingenuity, not in the direction of helping themselves, but to organizing in groups to bring pressure upon governments to enlarge the distribution of relief, the cost of the same to be paid, of course, by those who do work and are willing to work.

This break down in the morale of so many people is, let it be repeated, one of the most deplorable and most sinister effects of the world depression, against their will to accept government assistance in these times, nor has it to any great extent affected those who can trace their difficulties to climatic conditions over which neither they nor governments have any control. But there has been a great loss of self-reliance, and most unfortunately so among young people in their late teens and early twenties who, not affected, or will rise above the temptations of the moment, but to exert themselves and battle the waves of adversity until the tide does turn in their favor.

No useful purpose is served by painting a gloomy and discouraging picture unless it can be used to point out a moral and teach a lesson. And it is the duty of all those who realize the existing tendency, and who appreciate its dangers and influence in the scale to maintain and promote the spirit of self-reliance, to teach the beauty of courage and the virtues of despair. Clergymen, teachers, parents, all our many worthwhile organizations have responsibility is greater now than in times of astounding prosperity.

It is the duty and responsibility of all to inculcate the truthful idea in the minds of people that in its only useful and growing sense, life is a struggle. We learn to walk not by being carried, but by painstakingly making the effort to walk. So long as a young child is carried, it will never learn to walk, and until it does walk it will remain weak. Self-reliance must be taught throughout life, or life will be a tragedy for those who have failed to learn.

We rightly pray "Lead us not into temptation," because temptation should be avoided, but temptation comes nevertheless in every moment and activity of life. So it is we further pray, "But deliver us from evil." Strength comes from offering resistance, but those who would protect us against all hazards and the pitfalls of inexperience merely enfeeble rather than strengthen us.

So long as the necessity continues for government aid to those who cannot help themselves because of causes and conditions beyond their control, such government aid must be provided. No sane person thinks otherwise. But it should be the ambition of every man and woman to get along with a minimum of such aid and rely on their own efforts to the fullest possible extent while looking forward to the day when they can joyfully surrender all such aid and stand again on their own feet and face the world with courage in full reliance upon their own initiative and powers.

The Largest Carillon

At Bourville, England, the carillon installed in the tower of the village school has now become the largest in the world. The bells originally numbered 22, but a local family of distinction have made gifts of bells from time to time until the total has reached 48. The largest bell weighs over three tons, the smallest 12 pounds.

Treasures At Windsor Castle

Bibles Belonging To General Gordon And Kitchener Carefully Preserved The corridors of Windsor Castle are hung with magnificent pictures; but in a conspicuous place is a crystal casket, resting on a white silk cushion. Inside the casket can be seen a worn, shabby little Bible, and one wonders how it came there. It is the Bible which belonged to General Gordon, and was carried by him all through the long siege of Khartoum. After the hero's death, the sacred volume was given to Queen Victoria by his sister; and it has been preserved ever since in the manner described. Not far away is a Bible which belonged to Lord Kitchener. This is, of course, a comparatively recent addition to the treasures of the King's Berkshire home.

In the armoury is a mishapen morsel of lead worth nothing, but priceless. It is a relic absolutely unique, being the bullet which wounded Nelson at the Battle of Trafalgar. Another memento of Britain's great naval hero is his bust, which is supported by a pedestal made out of part of the Victory's mainmast. The marks of French shot can still be clearly seen on this historic piece of wood.

Canadian Scientist Honored

Dr. Gussow Elected President Of American Phyto-Pathological Society

A distinctive honor has just been conferred on Dr. H. T. Gussow, of Ottawa, Dominion Botanist, Dominion Experimental Farms, by his unanimous election to the presidency of the American Phyto-Pathological Society. The annual meeting was held in Pittsburgh, Pa., a few days ago. The society was organized in 1909 and has about 900 members, among whom are the leading plant pathologists and microbiological research workers in Canada and the United States. It is the only society of its kind in North America and is one of the most notable throughout the world among those of which scientific agriculturists are members. Dr. Gussow is a charter member and his written and oral contributions to the society and to agriculture generally, are considered as particularly valuable. He is regarded as one of the outstanding authorities on botanical science.

Powdered Whey

New Treatment Found For High Blood Pressure

How a new type of treatment for high blood pressure and tuberculosis came out of a chicken feed trough was disclosed by Dr. L. L. Stanley, San Quentin prison physician.

Seven years ago Dr. Stanley and Dr. Jau Don Ball, San Francisco physician, heard poultrymen at Petaluma, an egg production centre, were overcoming ailments of their flocks with powdered whey. They investigated and upon noting the results decided powdered whey might be good for men as well as for chickens.

Dr. Stanley said powdered whey had been used with success to lower abnormal blood pressure in San Quentin prisoners and to build up the bodies of men afflicted with tuberculosis.

"The results were very gratifying," said the slight, gray-haired prison doctor.

Longest Railway Bridge

Africa Spent Ten Million On Structure Over Zambesi River

Africa with its Victoria Falls possesses a greater fall of water, so far as height is concerned, than Niagara, and now the dark continent is setting claim to having the longest railway bridge in the world. It is located over the Zambesi river and is the last link in a chain providing Nyasaland and Portuguese East Africa with railroad transportation from Lake Nyasa to the east coast port of Beira, 520 miles distant. It cost $10,000,000 and took two and a half years to build.

A fleet of flat-bottomed river steamers has been conveying passengers and towing barges and freight across the Zambesi from one railroad to the other, but considerable delay and expense have been involved.

The length of the new bridge is 12,064 feet, or a little more than two miles—a few feet longer than the entire length of New York's George Washington Bridge. It has thirty-three spans that rest on concrete piers sunk 120 feet below the surface of the river. St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Machine Work Accurate

Best Of Hand Work Compares Unfavorably With It

Praises are often sung concerning the marvels of handcraft, but, considerations of art apart, it must be admitted that for accuracy and precision the best of handwork compares very unfavorably with the possibilities of machine production. Hand engravers pride themselves upon being able to engrave the Lord's Prayer upon a five cent piece. They would, however, without hesitation deny the possibility of engraving it in relief on the end of a piece of steel having a square area of one-sixth of an inch. Yet such an actual type was cast from a matrix struck by a hardened steel punch having the Lord's Prayer engraved in relief upon its end. The letters on the punch, and consequently on the type, measure .006 inch from top to bottom and stand up .0008 inch from their base. This is, undeniably, a marvellous engraving feat. In the Prince of Wales Museum, Bombay, one can see some specimens of similar skillful work done by hand on rice—usually the name of donors being engraved.

SCIENTISTS FIND FASTER WAY TO RELIEVE COLDS

1. Take 2 Aspirin Tablets.

2. Drink hot glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here... prescribed by doctors everywhere today as the quick, safe way.

Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly.

Just take Aspirin and drink plenty of water... every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward... If throat is sore, use the Aspirin gargle.

But be sure you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin Tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

TELL YOU HOW TO COOK 3 VEGETABLES AT ONCE IN THE SAME SAUCEPAN

with no odor... less cost... better results

Place each in its own bag made from Canapar Cookery Parchment. You seal in all the mineral salts and flavor, this way... and there's no odor, not even from cabbage or cauliflower. You need only use ONE burner—turned low.

And vegetables are only one food that can be cooked better with Canapar. For instance, when boiling or steaming fish, all the goodness and flavor are retained—and there's no odor—no sticky pots and pans to scour. This alone makes Canapar worth using.

Remember that Canapar won't absorb odors. You rinse it off—hang it up to dry and use it repeatedly. Try it as a dish cloth, especially for glasses—it does not shed lint.

Joint Convention Of Powers To Curb Air Attacks Is Proposed

London.—Renewed conversations at No. 10 Downing street Sunday night brought an agreement between Great Britain and France, successfully ending the three-day conversations between leaders of the two countries.

Germany, Italy and Belgium are to be invited to join in an air convention with Britain and France. The aim of this convention is to checkmate a sudden swoop from the skies. Under this convention the signatory powers undertake to give immediate assistance of their air forces to whichever of them might be the victim of an unprovoked aerial aggression by one of the contracting parties.

The French and British governments are prepared to resume their consultations "without delay" after receiving the replies of the other interested powers. They agreed nothing would contribute to the restoration of confidence, and the prospects of peace, except a general settlement freely negotiated between Germany and the other powers.

This "general settlement" would make provision for the organization of the security of Europe, and would establish agreements regarding armaments generally, which in the case of Germany should replace part five of the treaty of Versailles—the military clauses.

It would also be part of this general settlement that Germany should resume her place in the League of Nations.

This is the gist of the agreement. It represents a compromise between the British and French viewpoints as to the method of organizing security. Britain concretely offers the French the air assistance that they demanded in return for conceding German re-armament. The French in turn are willing to abrogate the German disarmament clauses of the Versailles treaty.

But, in line with the strong British stand against an out-and-out Franco-British military alliance, all is made open to other powers and, indeed, is contingent on their participation.

"The next move lies with Germany," was the comment at French headquarters. French opinion holds the invitation to Germany to take part in the air convention is simply a recognition of Germany's right to aeroplanes. France's policy, it is emphasized, is purely peaceful.

Delegation From United States In Winnipeg To Obtain Information.—Obtaining information on Canadian grain marketing methods and practices, two members of the commission of four named by the United States National Grain Dealers' Association came to Winnipeg to obtain testimony from grain operators here.

The inquiry, according to Prof. H. C. Filley, Lincoln, Neb., a member of the commission, is being conducted along the lines of the Starny royal commission which made an investigation of the grain trade three years ago following appointment by the Canadian government. Prof. Filley was accompanied here by H. B. Grommon, Plainfield, Ill., president of the Illinois Farmer Grain Dealers' Association and chairman of the National Grain Dealers' Association commission.

Britain To Establish Nation-Wide Television Service This Year

London.—The establishment of television on a country-wide basis was brought a step nearer as an announcement was made in the House of Commons that the government approved the report of a committee which has investigated this scientific invention.

Sir Kingsley Wood, postmaster-general, said that the British Broadcasting Corporation would be entrusted with the task of broadcasting television and would make a substantial contribution to the inauguration of this service. The committee found television on a high-frequency transmission basis had reached such a standard of development

Unemployment Insurance

Advisory Committee And Boards Of Referees To Administer The Act

Ottawa.—One problem the government will face in setting up the machinery for its unemployment insurance legislation will be selection of personnel for the commission to administer the act, the advisory committee and boards of referees.

Labor and employers will be represented equally on all bodies, and selection of these representatives will have to be made after consultation with the classes concerned. It is understood the consultation will be, as far as possible, with responsible executives of the organizations of labor and industry concerned. All appointments will be made by the governor-in-council. In the case of boards of referees panels will be drawn up in every district. Personnel will be drawn from them as and when required. Also in each district one person shall be named as chairman to act whenever a board of referees is required to function.

Only the unemployment and social insurance commission will work full time and at fixed salaries. The advisory committee and referees will act when required and will receive compensation and expenses.

Economic Planning

Economic Council To Be Established For Canada Soon

Ottawa.—Legislation establishing a national economic council will be introduced in the House of Commons soon after the royal commission on mass buying makes its report. Premier R. B. Bennett made the announcement in the house.

Edward S. Mann, United Farm member for Red Deer, prompted the prime minister's statement when he proposed a resolution urging national economic planning. It would have committed the house to the principle of substituting scientific treatment of economic problems for "the present practice of uncontrolled competition and unguided individual effort." He envisioned a vast economic laboratory where social problems replaced test tubes.

After two Toronto Conservatives, John R. MacNeil and T. L. Church, supported the Speaker's resolution, it was withdrawn at the suggestion of the prime minister who pointed to a forecast in the throne speech that an economic council would be established.

Wants Meeting Of Mayors

Would Have Gathering In Montreal To Discuss Relief Problem

Montreal.—If plans of Mayor Camille Houde materialize, mayors of all Canadian municipalities will convene in Montreal shortly for a two-day meeting before proceeding to Ottawa with the premiers of the various provinces to urge the Dominion government to assume half the cost of direct unemployment relief, the provinces to share the other half.

Previously Mayor Houde had planned to call the meeting in Ottawa. Reported declaration of Premier R. B. Bennett that the municipalities must deal with the Dominion government through their provincial governments necessitated the change in plans, Mayor Houde explained.

B.C. Floods

Long Time Yet Before Flood Waters Subside

Vancouver.—Although at least two months will probably elapse before flood waters are pumped from the inundated Sumas prairie, the Fraser valley as a whole was slowly returning to normal.

Water on the prairie was reported as high as ever and Chilliwack district was still without electric power, but interurban services were resumed as far as Abbotsford and, with the exception of Agassiz telephone communication has been restored to all parts of the valley.

The situation on the prairie will not be changed until the 400-foot break in the Sumas river dyke is repaired. Pumps were working to capacity and water was running rapidly through the flood gates into the Fraser river.

Another big slide has been reported at Kilgair, where two persons lost their lives in a slide, and it is feared further slides may occur. Families driven from their homes there were being housed at Abbotsford. Other settlers driven from their homes in the lower Fraser valley were returning as flood waters subsided.

Marketing Scheme

Manitoba Dairy Farmers Ask Executive To Study Proposals

Winnipeg.—Entry of Manitoba dairy farmers under a marketing scheme within the regulations of the Natural Products Marketing Act was left with the executive for recommendation as the annual convention of the Manitoba Dairy Association ended here.

A resolution urging the meeting to approve establishment of a marketing scheme was amended, asking the executive and the heads of the manufacturers' committee of the association to make a study of proposals. It was indefinite when recommendations would be made.

A. C. Fraser, secretary of the National Dairy Council, reviewed what would be involved in a marketing scheme under the act and answered many questions about operations.

Report Is Disturbing

Secret Clause Said To Be In German-Polish Treaty

Geneva.—Reports of the existence of a secret clause in the German-Polish treaty of a nature which would prevent Germany and Poland from participating in an eastern League pact proved disturbing to some of the central European powers represented here.

It was reported that if Germany does not accept the projected pact, a brain-child of France, Czechoslovakia will follow France's example and construct a chain of fortifications along the German and Hungarian frontiers.

CANADA'S MILLION-DOLLAR OBSERVATORY OPENS IN MAY

The new Dunlop observatory, which has been erected at Richmond Hill, Ontario, is to be formally opened on May 31, 1935, when many prominent scientists will be present. Among the astronomers who will take part in the opening ceremonies will be Sir Frank Dixon, former Astronomer Royal. Our pictures above show parts of the imposing observatory which will be one of the most modern of its kind in the world. (Inset) Sir Frank Dixon.

Here is a new portrait of Sir Francis Floud, new British High Commissioner, who arrived in Ottawa recently to take over the office relinquished by Sir William Clark.

Ready For Speed Test

Sir Malcolm Campbell Arrives With Rebuilt Blue Bird

New York.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, prince of speed, has come back to the United States with a hope of 300 miles an hour over Daytona Beach's golden sands resting in his crated, seven-ton Juggernaut Bluebird, the feeling that perhaps was his last gamble with roaring death.

"Theoretically she's faster than my old record of 272.108," he said. "I can't say more. But I will be satisfied with 300 miles an hour."

The slim Englishman, in his 50th year, knighted after he set a former record at Daytona Beach in 1931, has every confidence his entirely rebuilt monster will eclipse any speed man ever before accomplished on land.

Tentatively the time for Sir Malcolm's newest attempt on the land speed record has been set for between Feb. 14 and 20. He left for Daytona with Lady Campbell and his 11-year-old daughter, Jean, who arrived with him on the Aquitania.

Protest From Canada

Dominion Unwilling To Give Place To Russia

Ottawa.—Canada's representatives at Geneva have been instructed to make every effort to retain the Dominion's seat on the governing body of the international labor office, it was stated here. Several exchanges of communications have passed between Ottawa and Geneva.

Minister of Labor W. A. Gordon said the Dominion could be deprived of its seat only by orders of the League of Nations, and he estimated that there was no possibility of this country voluntarily stepping aside in favor of Russia. In the event of a summary order issuing from the league itself, calling upon Canada to yield up the seat, it is understood a long notice would have to be given.

Measure To Extend Agricultural Credits Boon To Farmers

Likely To Receive Pension

Five R.C.M.P. Members May Get Credit For Military Service

Ottawa.—The House or Commons gave first reading to a bill to credit a few members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with military service in South Africa for purposes of pension. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, explained not more than five men would be affected and they would be placed in the same position as members of the permanent force.

Third reading was given to bills amending the Interpretation act respecting observation of Remembrance Day, amending the Representation act respecting the two Hamilton constituencies and amending the Pension act.

Mr. Guthrie had third reading of a bill to amend the Criminal code delayed in order to change it. It would permit of a six-man jury in criminal trials in Saskatchewan, and would include the province of Alberta, where juries of six have been the rule in the amendment. Mr. Guthrie said the law officers of Alberta asked that no change be made respecting that province as its jury system dated back to the time before Alberta entered the Dominion as a province.

Jap Army Advancing

Heavy Fighting Is Reported In Mongolian Territory

Tokyo.—Heavy fighting in which Japanese regular soldiers played a decisive role broke out in bitter sub-zero weather on the disputed frontier where Outer Mongolia, which Tokyo asserts is under the domination of Soviet Russia, adjoins Manchoukuo.

A brief despatch from Hankin, capital of the state which Moscow and the capitals of the other powers consider a creation and protectorate of the Japanese army, described for the Reingo (Japanese) Agency the advance of an expedition of Japanese and Manchoukuo cavalry into the area.

They were pushing their mounts over the frozen steppes of wild Mongolian territory, said the despatch, in temperatures of 36 below zero. It was in this same advance that they attacked and captured Kalkha Miao, driving the Mongols before them. Japanese general headquarters at Hankin frankly announced the participation of Japan in the expedition. They said its object was to "expel invading Mongols from Manchoukuo territory."

Chairman Of Bank Board

Graham Towers Was Chosen As Head Of Directors

Ottawa.—The first meeting of the newly-elected board of directors of the Bank of Canada chose the governor of the bank, Graham Ford Towers, as chairman of the board and Thomas Bradshaw, executive director.

As executive director, Mr. Bradshaw will be a member of the executive committee. The other members of the executive are the governor, deputy governor, J. A. C. Osborne, and Deputy Minister of Finance W. C. Clark.

Ottawa.—Acclaimed from all sides of the House of Commons as a boon to financially harassed farmers, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, took the first step to extend agricultural credits. He proposed a bill to overhaul the Canadian farm loan board and increase its credit capacities.

The bill would abolish provincial loan boards and centralize authority in the federal commission. Operations would be extended to the three provinces in which the federal board does not operate—Ontario, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island. It would increase from $15,000,000 to $60,000,000, the amount of money available for farm loans.

Under the rules of the house, a government bill to spend money must be preceded by a resolution. When the finance minister presented his resolution, it met such a flood of commendation he was blocked from introducing the bill. It will come into the house as the second of the government's reform legislation.

The finance minister was pressed by Liberals and Progressives to lower to four per cent. the interest rates on loans. He said he could do so to farmers but the best he could do was to hold out some hope for the future.

Under the financial set-up of the farm board, the government advances the loan money. In the past, the government has charged the board four per cent. and it has passed it on to farmers at 5 1/2 per cent. Mr. Rhodes said he believed it might be possible to lower to 3 1/2 per cent. the rate charged by the government, bringing the farmers charge down to five per cent.

The plight of hard-pressed Canadian farmers was painted in the darkest colors by speaker after speaker from all corners of the house. Farmers were pictured as unable to secure money although they had good land and expensive machinery and buildings. Credit for them did not exist.

All day long, politics was kept in the background as first an opposition member, then a supporter of the administration, commended the finance minister on his release of credit to farmers, the primary producers of wealth in Canada. There was criticism of the farm loan board, particularly from Manitoba and Alberta members, but most of them agreed the new legislation would surmount the difficulties.

Elimination of provincial loan boards, the members agreed, would stop the practice of "passing the buck" between them and Ottawa when a farmer applied for a loan. Centralized authority, particularly when the scheme was made nationwide, would bring better results.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal, Edmonton West, and other Liberals pressed the government to take "big chances" in loaning money to farmers. Canadian agriculture, they said, was on the verge of bankruptcy and only desperate methods would restore it.

Woman Journalist Dead

Montreal.—Former member of the parliamentary press gallery at Ottawa and one of Canada's outstanding women journalists, Mrs. Genevieve Lipsett Skinner died in hospital here after a lengthy illness.

U. S. And Russia On Governing Body Of Geneva Labor Office

Geneva.—The United States and Russia were voted into the governing body of the international labor office while Canada and Belgium, who up to the present held seats, were given the right to sit as deputy members of the governing body until the next election in 1937.

The new set-up was determined at a closed meeting of the governing body. The members voted 24 to one that the eight leading industrial nations of the world were: The United States, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Italy, Japan and Russia. Three members abstained from voting. The single opposition vote was cast by Canada.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS This year, not featured by any contentious issue, but featured by the number of candidates, apparently will not witness the same intensive campaign as in the last two or three elections.

IT INDICATES that there are various groups favoring certain candidates, and though little comment is heard, yet a watchful interest is being maintained. The ratepayers committee unofficially sponsored the candidatures of Arthur Reid, former trustee, Robert Morris, employee of McGillivray mine, and Frank H. Graham. The other six candidates have been nominated by individual ratepayers.

JAMES M. ALLAN, former chairman of the trustees, declined to accept nomination though pressed to do so. His record of service is appreciated by the ratepayers, but public business clashing with private affairs influenced him to decline nomination.

ON THE COUNCIL W. Chapman, W. L. Borrows and Andrew Harry are up for re-election, their nomination being proposed by individual ratepayers and not by any particular organization. New entries are Joe E. Plante and Ernest W. Beart, the latter being an employee of International mine. Candidates represent an almost even distribution of employees of the mining companies, who have the largest voting power as ratepayers, while the retail business interests are represented by Frank H. Graham on the school trustees list. It is his first entry into local government candidature.

RETAILERS on the council are Mayor Pattinson, who has another year to complete his term, and Fred Antrobus. W. H. Haysom and Frank Serak have another year to complete their terms as councillors. The miners association took no official part in nominations this year, and the field is as open as it is for a string of horses when they leave the starting post.

RATEPAYERS are urged to record their votes for their respective choices. There is a list to choose from representative of all sections of the town, but it must be remembered that it is only by organization that elections are won.

THE HAUPTMANN trial in Flemington, New Jersey, is a good example of how justice should not be administered. Reading the various reports of reporters, special writers, novelists, philosophers and so forth, would lead one to the conclusion that a vast public entertainment was in progress.

Such a state of affairs is usually absent in Canadian courts of justice. We had it in our mind to say that it was always absent, but recollections of the Browlee trial intervened. The orgy of misguided and lewd publicity which accompanied that event was a stain on Canadian newspapers.

The Hauptmann case resembles more the gladiatorial games of ancient Rome or the bull rings of Spain. It is a public sensation and the excitement-loving people are seeking their daily thrill.—Hanna Heaall.

BLAIRMORE citizens are content with the "status quo" on their council and school board, in fact the Moderates must have given up the ghost, for their only representative, S. G. Bannon, did not contest again for the school trustees. All are now "Workers Candidates," or "All Red." Well, people get the type of government they deserve, therefore it is presumed Blairmore is content.

DARK AS AN ALLEY describes Main street. Except for the street lights, store fronts are indiscernible and a fine medium for advertising goods is overlooked. City stores utilize their brightly lighted windows to attract attention. The use of more light in store fronts might have the same effect in Coleman, and would reflect a ray of enterprise on store owners.

THERE IS room for progress and improvement in every business. If you are not serving customers, there are many other useful things to be done in making a store attractive. Neatness, cleanliness and an atmosphere of busy-ness attract more business. There's no excuse for loafing except mental and physical laziness.

"THE UNITED FARMER," official journal of the U. F. A. political party, and Wm. Aberhart are waging a lively controversy. The former gives almost a page exposing what it terms the fallacies of Mr. Aberhart's plan, and states "any student of economics would quickly discover the mass of errors upon which it is based." Mr. Aberhart replying over the radio taunts the U. F. A. paper with the necessity of adding further pages to its issues to give more space to criticism of his policies. Referring to the "United Farmer" he states "the ravings in any paper would not long be tolerated by its subscribers," and the paper replies—"The trouble with Mr. Aberhart's plan is that it is a gold brick," and that his tax on unearned increment would provide only $2.00 a month based on his own figures. The controversy arouses widespread interest.

VICTORIA set for WINTER GOLF FESTIVAL

Golf on sun-shine flooded courses over fairways and greens as sprightly and smooth as in summer, but with a minimum of rough, is the lure for the seventh annual renewal of the Empress Midwinter Golf tournament to be played over the scenic and championship links of the Oak Bay course at Victoria, B.C., February 18-23.

The lure of midwinter golf brings the ardent golfer from all parts of Canada and the United States, not to mention Europe, to compete in this now famous tournament, inaugurated seven years ago by the Empress Hotel, Victoria and the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to utilizing the world that Canada has in its courses on Vancouver Island, weather conditions that rival those further south in winter time. There is no lack of prizes, and some of them rank high in the world of golf trophies.

The E. W. Beatty Trophy still remains the chief award, but the prize list has been augmented greatly. The Victoria Chamber of Commerce set up its fine cup as the reward for an open amateur championship—the Beatty Cup being for handicap play in men's and women's divisions; the late Jack Watson, noted British Columbia sportsman, added his cup for inter-district team matches played for by four-men teams, and the Victoria Rotary club put up a handsome rose bowl to reward the fair golfer who turned in the best gross qualifying score, and the Victoria Golf Club and Royal Colwood Golf Club also have been helpful in increasing the array of silver ware to more than fifty fine pieces.

For 1935, the sea-kirt, short and tricky Oak Bay course of the Victoria Golf Club has been chosen as the scene of the 7th Empress tournament, with dates February 18-23 inclusive.

Lay-Out shows the first Green; the E. W. Beatty Cup; the Oak Bay Club House, and the Empress Hotel.

Interest Keyed Up to High Pitch in League Champ's hip.

Medicine Hat finished their league on January 31, with a sparkling victory over the Lethbridge Maple Leafs to give them an eleven point total, Lethbridge being one point behind, with one game in hand, that being with Coleman.

Coleman have still three games to play, one with Lethbridge at home and two with Bellevue, home and away. Coleman have a six-point total in the league and provided no upsets occur they should add another six points to win the league by a one point margin.

Provincial play-offs are once more coming into the spotlight, the intermediate play-offs having already been drawn. Coleman have entered the senior play-offs and being the only senior entry in the southern part of the province they are expected to be drawn against Drumheller Miners who are sweeping all before them in their respective league.

Injuries have prevented Coleman from settling down into the hockey machine that they were last year, resulting in a few players having to bear the brunt of each game. With the enforced idleness due to mild weather, injuries should be a thing of the past, allowing the team to get down to business.

Hiding Place Of Gold

Offer To Show South African Government Where Boer Treasure Is Located

Capt. A. W. Lewis, retired importer who claims decorations for Boer war services, announced at Berkeley, Calif., that he had offered to show the South African government the exact location of the long-sought Boer treasure cache, estimated worth $55,000,000.

Lewis said he had written to the high commissioner for the Union of South Africa at Pretoria, Transvaal, making two conditions: That he be compensated for revealing the hiding place of the gold, and that the British government sponsor an expedition to recover the gold and protect him against civil lawsuits by any mine owners claiming the property upon which the cache stands.

Commodity Deception

Numerous Discoveries Of Fraudulent Advertising Are Brought To Light Establishment of an associate committee on consumer commodity standards, comprising technical members of the national research council, representatives of industry, consumers and government departments was urged on the royal commission on mass buying by Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the council.

Dr. Tory's evidence was taken up chiefly with explanations to the commission of examinations made by the council into various commodities and their genuineness or otherwise.

He cited numerous discoveries of fraudulent advertising and emphasized the confusion in the minds not only of the consumer but also of retailers themselves regarding commodities for which no standards of quality or content exist. Deception existed in state example in the advertisement and sale of gasoline and lubricating oil. Certain brands of paint were sold under names of non-existent companies, because, he said, "the manufacturers were ashamed to put their names on them."

"A silver-plated mug, selling at $1.50, was found to contain no more silver per unit area than a nine-cent butter knife purchased at a local chain store," said Dr. Tory. He advocated examination of all Dominion and provincial statutes having to do with standards to determine what changes were needed to relate them to consumer needs.

Would Revise Building Act

Removal Of Old Restrictions Asked By London County Council

An increase in the height of London buildings from the present limit of 80 feet to from 120 to 150 feet is one of the aims of the London County Council in its bid to Parliament to abolish the old building law and pass a new one for the ultimate re-making of the world's metropolis. The speeding up in the passing of plans for new buildings is another object of the L.C.C. has in view.

The draft bill to be submitted to the British parliament by the London County Council embraces the classification of buildings into five grades according to height and fire-resisting materials used, also the abolition of restrictions which limit the use of reinforced concrete and steel framing.

For two years and a half a committee has been working out schemes to be embodied in a new bill to take the place of the present London Building Act. This is a consolidation measure which still retains certain clauses that were in operation in the 12th century, and what is wanted now is a modern London in its architecture. Antiquated safety regulations make it impossible for builders in London to avail themselves of the latest methods of modern construction, hence the County Council's movement for 150-foot buildings.

NOT A RHEUMATIC
PAIN FOR 4 YEARS

70-Year-Old-Man Praises Kruschen

A man who once suffered severely from rheumatism writes:—
"For a long time I suffered with rheumatism, and at one time was laid up for about nine weeks. About five years ago I was advised to try Kruschen. I did so, and continued using them ever since. Kruschen did the trick, as I have not had a rheumatic pain for over four years. I am nearly 70 years of age, and feeling fine, and always able for my day's work—thanks to Kruschen."—A. S. Kruschen, dissolves away the needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again.

(Editor's Note: Letters of commendation are coming in each day from readers who have obtained a personal reading of their handwriting. The author invites you to send yours for a character delineation. See the end of this article for offer.)

A girl from a small rural town writes me as follows: "Will you please tell me if my handwriting shows whether there is anything the matter with my personality? I am a fairly good looking girl, but I do not seem able to keep my boy friends. Perhaps my writing will tell you just what I am, and then you can help me to enjoy a better existence. As it is, I am lonely, and I cannot see how I should be so."

Looking at this girl's writing, it is very evident that she is inclined to be reserved. She is capable of feeling intensely, but is very backward in expressing her emotions. She holds herself back, and the result is that she does not reveal her real self to her friends.

She seems cool and distant when, in reality, she is anything but that. Yet her native reserve and restraint make her seem so. And this character, of people who do not like this, and so jump at the conclusion that she is not affectionate, or is too haughty. The result is that they seek the company of others who are more open in the expression of their feelings.

There are many people situated similarly to my correspondent. In most cases, true, likeable people if one gets to know them and understand them, to the majority of people they do not appeal.

I am not going to suggest to my friend that she undertake to change herself. This would be impossible. Whilst it is possible for us to remedy faults and defects in our character, and to strengthen good characteristics, it is quite out of the question to change the entire basic structure of one's temperament.

This girl to change her nature to that of an extremely buoyant and spontaneous one, would be like expecting a leopard to change its spots or the sun to change its manner of rotation. But it is possible for this girl to be a little more expressive and to draw back that type of nature has a tendency to be ultra-sensitive. Very frequently they imagine slights where none is intended. And this makes them more aloof and inaccessible. To paraphrase a well-known expression: They are of the earth, but not earthly.

I suggest to my correspondent that she "come down to earth." We all have to accept a certain amount of "give and take," unless we intend to live alone, caring nothing for anyone else.

Endeavor to cure yourself of this sensitiveness. It will not be easy, of course. You won't do it in a day or a week. But you will eventually go a long way to overcoming it, and it will save you a lot of worry and unhappiness in the future. And you will know yourself a little more intimately to your real friends or to those you want to interest.

You may not be able to transform yourself into the overwhelmingly popular success that some girls are; but you will be a much more likely to please those in whom you are really interested. And that is, after all, mainly what you are seeking.

Would you like to find out what your character really shows? Have you any friends who are interested in you? Would you much like to know? The author of these articles will send you a personal reading, and it may be worth a great deal to you. Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and state the birthdate in each case. Enclose five-cent coin for specimen, and enclose with a 3c stamped, addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters are all confidential, and replies will be mailed as quickly as possible. Please allow for some delay, however, owing to the large number of letters that are coming in.

News Leaks Often Serious

Changed Things In Two Outstanding Cases During War
A nation's decision for peace or war is usually swung by something more than a single document or news item, though there is always Bismarck's famous bit of juggling in the Ems dispatch. But in the actual conduct of military operations intercepted information has often been of vital importance.

The two outstanding cases in the World War occurred on the western front. Nivelle's great offensive on the Chemin des Dames in April, 1917, collapsed because the Germans knew long before that it was coming. The Germans were in turn the victims of a fatal news leakage in the summer of 1918. Ludendorff's last desperate bid for victory, the so-called "Friedenssturm" of July 15 on the Champagne front, was revealed to the French by a prisoner. They pulled back their line, trained their guns on their own abandoned trenches and caught the enemy in a trap. Three days later Foch unleashed the final counter-offensive.

Russian Cities Growing

New Ones Starting And Old Ones Being Rebuilt

City life is gaining in importance in Russia so rapidly that, in the last three years the population of Moscow has increased by nearly 1,000,000 to 3,600,000, and that of Leningrad by more than 500,000. The people's commissar, Komarov, in charge of communal economy in Russia proper, reported new cities were springing up as giant industrial enterprises are undertaken, the old cities are being rebuilt, and thousands of miles of street-car lines are being extended, and streets and squares paved or repaired.

Millions Of Grasshoppers Frozen In Glacier In Montana

Probably one of the most curious sights of the world is a glacier full of frozen grasshoppers. This is known as Grasshopper Glacier, and is to be seen in Montana, United States. The huge mass of ice, under the crust of which the grasshoppers are buried, is under the shadow of Granite Peak, a 13,000 foot mountain. Millions and millions of grasshoppers are embedded in the ice of the glacier, and no one knows how many thousands of years they have been there. Those near the surface are plainly seen through the clear ice. Just how the grasshoppers came to be in the ice is a matter which has long perplexed scientists. One idea is that the insects were suddenly killed by a cold blast of air when crossing the mountains on one of their periodic flights southwards. Falling, they became buried in ice and snow.

PETER PREACHES AT PENTECOST

Golden Text: And Peter said unto them, Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. Acts 2:38.
Lesson: Acts 2.
Devotional reading: Philippians 2: 5-11.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Sermon: Jesus Fulfilled the Prophecy of Joel, verses 14-21. Peter's first object was to prove that Jesus fulfilled the Old Testament prophecies and expectations in regard to the Messiah; accordingly, he told them that the events of Pentecost which had amazed them were but the fulfilling of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2: 28-32), that at the coming of the Messiah God's Spirit would be poured forth, and that young, men, women, bond and free, would see visions and speak divine truths.

Peter's Sermon: Three Proofs that Jesus Is the Christ, verse 22-35. First, there were the miracles which his hearers themselves had witnessed; second, there was the resurrection, of which they all were witnesses; God had raised Jesus from the dead to higher life and wider power. Third, there was the pouring forth of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, which they had seen and heard; Jesus still lived and cared for his followers, for he was with them in the Holy Spirit.

The Climax of Peter's Sermon, verse 36. "This sermon would have had no effect without an application. No man would have been saved. The sermon had results because there is one little word of two letters in the application: that word is 'ye'." (Frank W. Wilson)

Peter's Exhortation and Its Result, verses 37-41. Peter's words, especially those given in Psalm 110:1, were convincing to the Jews, and the home-thrust at their consciences—"whom ye crucified," "pricked their hearts, convinced them of their sin, and they cried, 'Brethren, what shall we do?' How can we be freed from our guilt?" "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit," was Peter's exhortation. They must not only repeat of their sins, but they must change their view in regard to Jesus Christ, and when they had regarded him as a false Christ they must accept as the true Christ, and they must acknowledge this by being baptized. Peter repeated his words, and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls.

March Written By Prince

Litling Tune Composed For Bagpipes Is Called "Majorona"

The news that the Prince of Wales had written a slow march to be played on the bagpipes caused great surprise in circle circles.

Pipe-Major F. MacDonald of the Scots Guards said the slow march was "a very good march, and inspired him." He said the Scots Guards played the prince's tune at the Tower of London a few days ago. "No one knew who was the composer."

The prince called the slow march "Majorona."

SPACE

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

All of the heavenly bodies, including the earth upon which we live, are separated from each other by space. For years scientists have been asking themselves the question "what is space?" There is a wide difference of opinion about it. Scientists have shown that the earth, in moving through space, does not drag the ether along with it, as it apparently should if the ether were present. Hence some think that the ether does not exist. No one, however, seems to have a definite answer. While some scientists object to the term ether, they still believe that there is "something" in the vacuum between the planets.

All light, heat, and cosmic rays, as well as enormous numbers of electrons, pass through this vacuum in reaching our earth. Space above and under the earth's surface, air molecules dart hither and thither at the speed of about 1,000 feet per second, but through very short distances, thus bombarding our bodies with a pressure of about fifteen pounds per square inch.

The upper layer of the atmosphere is known as the Kennelly-Heaviside layer. The constant bombardment of this layer of air by electrons from space causes the air to become electrically charged, thus reflecting radio waves and causing fading. Scientists have sent out intermittent radio waves which were photographically recorded on an instrument three miles away. By comparing the direct and reflected impulses, the latter were shown to have travelled 70 miles upward and back again. Science has reported that the earth's bombarding electrically charged molecules of air in the Kennelly-Heaviside layer of the atmosphere are at least partly responsible for the blue color of the sky.

Indian Dies Without Telling Where He Found Gold

Search has been renewed among a maze of winding mountain trails in Alberta for a legendary fortune in gold from which Mosely Mooste, 87-year-old Indian, once was reported to have procured enough nuggets to save his tribe from starvation.

The key to the long-hidden secret was believed to have been held alone by the aged patriarch who died at the McLeod lake encampment on Jan. 16. Proffered bribes and persuasions failed to gain from the old Indian the source of a supply of gold nuggets he was reputed to have brought from the hills many years ago.

For years prospectors and adventurers have combed the wooded mountain slopes in search of the rich vein which Indian legend says was provided by the "Great Spirit" for Indians in time of stress.

It was on such occasion many years ago Mooste was supposed to have vanished into the hills for two days, to reappear with a number of heavy nuggets. These he exchanged at a trading centre for food with which to supply his fellow tribesmen, who lived for weeks on a scanty supply of fish.

No trace ever was found of the vein, and several white men were reported to have lost their lives while prospecting in the isolated district.

Proved best for CHILDREN'S COLIC

VICKS VAPORUB

Two generations of mothers have proved Vicks VapoRub the safe, dependable way to treat colic. Just rubbed on throat and chest, VapoRub fights a cold direct—two ways at once.

Through the skin it acts direct like a poultice or plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages of head, throat and bronchial tubes.

This combined action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

AVOIDS "DOSING"

With VapoRub, you avoid the risks of constant internal dosing—which so often upsets children's delicate digestions and lowers resistance when most needed. VapoRub can be used freely, and as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

SYNOPSIS

"You're full'n' heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically buying the ranch and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat, now returning to Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur, who had grumbled him, of his discovery of the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin. He sees Broken Spur rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Stone tells Crewe, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin, and is warned that Dustin would kill him if he got the chance. Stone and Crewe go to Seco to send a telegram to Gerald Keene. While at Seco an attempt is made to kill Stone, who proves more than a match for his enemies.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery and appraise its value. Dad Kane shows them the mine and samples of the rich ore he took from it.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Pryett Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, is made to know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch. Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory.

(Now Go On With The Story)

"It's his 'glory hole,'" he said. "He made a cut in the hill. I suppose he picked up a vein of ore along the hillside and followed it till it went into the hill. Then he dug after it and he got . . . This."

He turned the specimens of ore over and over in his hands and his eyes took on a curious look. "My Lord," he said softly. Then again, "My Lord! It isn't possible. . . ."

There was that in his voice that carried conviction to her, too, and she seized his arm in a frenzied clutch.

"What is it?" she asked. "Oh, what is it?"

"I'm not quite sure. I'm no mineralogist but . . . It looks like the real thing, Edith. Any assayer can tell us. It looks to me as if our friend Kane has found a darned good vein of gold on the Hour-glass land. At least we'd better pray it's on the Hour-glass. I've seen a lot of ore in Arizona and California and I'm sure I'm right."

"Oh. . . . Words failed her for a minute. . . . Then it will put Hour-glass on its feet. . . ."

"Yes. If we're right but . . . Edith. . . . I'll be much wiser to say not a word about it till we find out. I can send these samples off and have them assayed. When we have the assayer's report it will be time to tell your father. You know the effect a disappointment might have on him. . . ."

Her eyes filled as she glanced at him. So he, too, knew old Joe Carr's weakness! Yet . . . How decently he covered his knowledge! She was suddenly glad that she could trust him.

"I'll do exactly as you advise," she said quietly. "But it'll be all that I can do to keep it secret. We'll not say a word of what we've found."

"Not till we have got the assayer's report and, most important of all, till we have found old Kane. You see it is sure that Kane and Dustin are partners. I'm not well versed in mining law but I'm under the impression that any man who finds a vein of ore can follow it even under land that belongs to some one else. If Kane and Dustin both know of this find, it means trouble. . . . unless we can get in ahead of them. Let's get back at once."

"That's the best advice and headed back for the Hour-glass."

CHAPTER XI.

A sudden word from Stone made Edith check her horse. He was bending low on the near side of his horse and was studying the soft sandy soil. At her unspoken question he pointed to the trail.

"Packed burros and ponies have been along here not very long ago," he said. "How do I know?"

He laughed a little. "No use holdin' out on you. I know. Can't you see where that nigger-head cactus's been chewed? Nothin' on it but a burro. See that soft soil over there? Some animal has rolled there. I'm just guessin'. . . . Wait! Let's follow the tracks. They don't seem to leave the trail very much."

"Here's old Kane's fire," he said. "It hasn't been out very long. How do I know? Because if it had been out very long the wind would have drifted sand over the ashes. There are none. . . . No sands I mean. What's that?"

He stood at gaze staring at a great buzzard that was crow-hopping near the fire. He threw a rock at it and the ungainly bird hopped off among the low scrub. He dropped his reins and hurried across the flat and saw the reason for the bird's action in the remains of a piece of bacon rind that lay before him. It had been dragged from the fire by the buzzard seeking off. Stone picked it up and carried it back to the fire.

There's a sample of the same kind of rock you found in the cut in the hillside," said Edith quickly. She pointed to a lump of rock lying by the fire. Stone picked it up and examined it curiously. It was stained along one side with a curious brownish stain. He paid no attention to it.

When he dropped the rock in his pocket when his eye was caught by certain other things on the ground. While Edith was looking about her for other things, Stone carefully swept up certain odds and ends that lay half-hidden by the sands. Three cigarette butts were there and a green-and-red paper torn from a package of foreign make. Stone considered them, swept them into a heap and thrust them into his pocket.

"We may as well get on," he said swinging into saddle. "There's no doubt about it. Old man Kane made his camp here when he located that glory hole. If it had been a long time ago that bacon rind would have been eaten up or else it would have been hard and dry. He was here not long ago. . . .

"What else did you find?" "Nothin' much. Let's hit the trail!" Their ponies walked neck-and-neck along the narrow track and Edith turned to her companion.

"What shall we tell them at the Hour-glass?" she asked suddenly. "Oh, we'll just tell them that we found where old Kane's been at work. Then I'll snap the ore-samples off to an assayer unless I can get some one in Seco to do it. Better send it away, though. We don't want to start something that we can't finish. It's likely to start a stampede if the ore-samples show real gold in paying quantities. . . . And I'm sure they're rich. First of all though, we must find old Kane. But it's deeper than that, I fear. Kane has found the ore. Kane is a partner of Dustin's. It's a question of how honest Dustin is. Can you trust him?"

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's Frequently Just an "Idea." Not "Old Age." And According to Scientists, May Be Something No More Alarming Than A Touch Of Acid Stomach

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea. Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. Try this. You'll feel like another person. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of the liquid. Use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

"Sam Dustin? Trust Sam Dustin?" Her voice expressed such wonder at the question that he grinned behind a hand. "Why, I would trust a convicted thief first."

"That's about what I figured," he said. "Well. . . . We had better be on our way. It'll be late when we get back to the ranch."

They rode along through that golden afternoon. The western sun shed an aureate blanket over mesquite jungle and cactus scrub and the soft desert dust threw a soft mantle over them and through that mantle Stone was always aware of Edith's swaying figure giving to the stride of her horse. What a wife she would make! What it would mean to a man to know that when he came back to the Hour-glass from hard riding in the distant hills that such a girl would be waiting for him. If she sensed his thoughts, she treated them lightly. First of all though, we must find old Kane. But it's deeper than that, I fear. Kane has found the ore. Kane is a partner of Dustin's. It's a question of how honest Dustin is. Can you trust him?"

"Yonder's the ranch," she said and pointed to a distant blur on the flat plain at their feet. They came riding down the slope, their excited horses running neck-and-neck to the rhythmic thunder of the hoofbeats and the light click-click of the shifting bits.

"Oh. . . ." She paused breathlessly. "That was glorious. I wish you'd ride with me every day. Who's that? That is some one coming from the Hour-glass."

They paused on the slope to watch a horse swing out of the home corral at the Hour-glass and head toward them along the narrow trail at a headlong run. From time to time he flung his head and mane and half-leaped into the air at times.

"That's Dustin's big black," said Edith sharply. "I wonder what he's been at the Hour-glass for?"

"No good I bet. He's rowling his horse unmercifully. That's what makes him jump like that."

Beyond a doubt it was Sam Dustin. Edith gave a quick glance at the swiftly-moving horse that was heading straight for them. The trail to the house ran between twin lines of barbed wire; five strands of it set on heavy posts with a tangle of mesquite scrub along the wire. There was ample room in that lane for two horses to pass. . . . But would the black pass?

Edith knew instinctively what would happen. She saw the fell determination in Dustin's pose. She knew that in every rodeo and riding contest in three counties Sam Dustin had been victor so often that men could be found with difficulty to ride against him. There was not a man in the Valley who could compare with him.

The on-coming horse stretched out faster and faster and a running horse cannot be turned. He must run straight! She cast an anxious look over her shoulder at the fence. There was no hope for Stone there. A range-bred horse would face such a leap. She looked again at the black horse. She could see Dustin's face now and that face was without its mask of indifference. She remembered the quarrel of the two men at Soda Springs. Dustin's eyes were alight with a light that she knew instinctively though she had never seen it before and she knew what it portended. Sam Dustin, the best rider in three counties, meant to ride down his enemy in the golpe de caballo, the collision of horses! That golpe de caballo was a recognized form of dueling in days before the pistol was a part of every man's equipment and many a man has been left on the plains with a broken neck or back as a result of it.

"The golpe de caballo," she called frantically. "Look out, Duro! He means to ride you down. . . ."

Range-bred though she was, Edith's Carr's eyes were not quick enough to see what happened. Her gaze was centered on the furious on-coming Dustin so she missed the deft touch on the bits with which Stone gathered his great horse. That light touch brought the head down and chin down and in till it seemed to touch the broad chest. A quick unseen pressure of the rider's legs brought the horse up to the bit and for one moment the great Isabella horse half-crouched, like a coiled steel spring utterly subservient to his rider's will.

His weight was gathered, his balance poised on those powerful hind-quarters. Dustin was within fifty yards. . . . Forty. . . . Thirty. . . . Was Duro Stone a complete fool? Did he think that for one moment his horse could stand the shock or did he simply not understand? No amateur could face Sam Dustin on his famous black that had been trained to this sort of contest. Thirty. . . . Twenty yards and still no action!

Suddenly it came and it came so quickly that the eye could hardly follow it. (To Be Continued)

Little Helps For This Week

We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. 1 John 3:14.

Mutual love the tokens be; Lord that we belong to Thee; Love, Thine image, love impart; Stamp it on our face and heart; Only love to us be given; Lord, we ask no further heaven. —C. Wesley.

Oh, how many times we most of us can remember when we would gladly have made any compromise with our conscience, would gladly have made the most costly sacrifices to God, if He would only have excused us from the duty of loving of which our nature seemed utterly incapable. It is far easier to feel kindly, to act kindly, towards those with whom we are seldom brought into contact, whose tempers and prejudices do not rub against ours, whose interests do not clash with ours, than to keep up an habitual steady self-sacrificing love towards those whose weaknesses and faults are always forcing themselves upon us, and are stirring up our own. A man may pass good muster as a philanthropist who makes but a poor master to his servants, or father to his children. —F. D. Maurice.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Graham are attending the Alberta Dramatic Festival being held in Calgary. Coleman did not have an entry this year.

Frank Graham, jr., is a candidate for school trustee; not Frank Graham, sr. To avoid confusion in the minds of electors, this reference is made.

McKeen Hunter has been in Holy Cross hospital, Calgary, for treatment to an injury to his shoulder sustained a considerable time ago in the International mine.

Rev. Roy C. Taylor, Principal D. Hoyle and A. Webster addressed a public meeting at Waterton last Friday night on behalf of the Aberhart system of Social Credit for Alberta.

R. Fumagelli, Ford dealer, gave a demonstration of the new 1935 car by means of pictures accompanied by "talkies" in Harold Jones garage, on Thursday evening. Mr. Jones has been appointed sub-agent for Coleman.

Mrs. James Ford was a recent visitor with her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Watkins, at High River. Mr. Watkins, formerly government vendor here, underwent an operation for appendicitis and is well on the road to recovery.

Florence LeRoy, Ella May Haycock and Lillian McGovern, Girl Guide leaders at Michel, attended the gathering here last Saturday in honor of the visit of Miss Williams of Dominion headquarters. About 25 attended the banquet in the Grand Union and during Miss Williams' visit training classes for leaders were held in Bellevue, Coleman and Michel.

In honor of Violet Wilson, who recently completed her Grade XII year in Coleman school, and who will leave on Tuesday morning for Victoria Jubilee hospital, Victoria, B. C., Mrs. Arthur Jones, Sixth street, was hostess to a number of Violet's girl friends and fellow-students at a handkerchief shower. An amusing feature of the evening's enjoyment was that of each girl relating her most embarrassing experience—too embarrassing to review in print.

New Body Lines and More Room in 1935 Ford V-8

THE largest and roomiest cars Ford has ever built, with new body lines of advanced streamline design, are illustrated above in this Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor sedan for 1935. Sedan seat six passengers in comfort. Luxurious appointments are new. The eleven body types are all finished in new baked enamel which is said to need only washing to restore its high lustre. Cars are approximately eight inches longer from bumper to bumper and seats are wider. Chassis improvements, including moving the engine forward more than eight inches and new spring suspension, add to riding comfort, especially of rear seat passengers. Directed-flow crankcase ventilation is an improvement of the 90 horsepower V-8 engine.
